SENATE CALLS BACK RFC BILL

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, May 20.—Railroad labor unions added a threat of a nationwide strike today to efforts of administration senators to prevent rail lines from putting a 15 per cent wage cut into effect.

The Railway Labor Executive association, charging in a statement that the roads had "double-crossed" their employees, asserted a strike would be the "only ultimate remedy" if the railroads pressed their wage reduction program.

Senate Opposition Seen

Senate opposition to the cut crystallized in withdrawal yesterday of a committee-approved bill to make more liberal RFC loans available to the carriers.

The bill was on the house calendar for debate this afternoon. The senate returned the measure to its banking committee at the request of Chairman Wagner (N.Y.), who said there had been no discussion of the wage cut proposal at the time the bill had been considered.

Wagner told reporters that several committee members wanted to include a no-wage-cut stipulation in the legislation. Both labor and management will be called to testify on the issue, he said.

Wagner said the bill would be a "no-wage-cut" bill. He said the bill would be a "no-wage-cut" bill. He said the bill would be a "no-wage-cut" bill.

PROPHET FAILS HIS PEOPLE

James A. Farley, that usually shrewd prophet of political weather, must feel Pennsylvania voters let him down in Tuesday's primary. Earlier in the week he had intimated he would be pleased to see votes rain down on the CIO sponsored Thomas Kennedy and would rejoice if the sun shone on Gov. Earle, who scorned the Lewis touch.

Results show, however, that Mr. Kennedy lost his bid for Democratic nomination as governor after a hard tussle with the "regular" party candidate, Charles A. Jones. Moreover, Gov. Earle entered the senatorial finals by walking away from Mayor Wilson of Philadelphia who ran with the Guffey blessing—and he did the job after plainly asserting he cared nothing for the left handed indorsement of Mr. Farley.

True to political form, Messrs. Earle and Farley have exchanged olive branches which might lead to a united front in November, despite bitter pre-primary wrangling.

Outsiders, however, aren't overlooking the possibility that Pennsylvanians still may have some bad weather in store for Prophet Farley. It is not easy to forget, for instance, that Tom Kennedy was beaten by a comparative unknown and that Gov. Earle won in a canter despite disavowing the CIO and genial Jim. Nor can it be forgotten that the Republicans rolled up as many votes as did the Democrats although the results of their battles never seemed in doubt.

Doubtless Seer Farley is scanning the political skies more anxiously since Keystone state voters appeared to tell him "hands off."

THE FARMER DOESN'T GIVE UP

City businessmen can insure in one way or another against some of the hazards of their business but the farmer faces each year a major threat against which there is no insurance and no defense.

Ohio was visited last week by its dreaded "May frost" and results are just becoming apparent. They measure up to the first predictions of damage done, especially in the great truck gardening areas in the southern part of the state.

The killing freeze came just at the time to do the greatest damage, for young plants had been moved from greenhouses and hot beds to the open field and the cold spell killed them. In many cases farmers are without other plants to replace the ones they lost and must try to import their replantings from other sections.

Financial loss will be heavy but the true farmer is a fatalist. He engages in his labor knowing that nature may attack him with cold, drouth, deluge, hail, dust storms and insect pests, but he takes his chances. When he loses, he digs in and starts all over again. The farmer takes, without a whimper, a beating which would send many businessmen to the walling wall. His strength in adversity is an object lesson in that rugged Americanism which has survived everything that the perversities of nature and of man have been able to devise.

PREPARATION

Youth which thinks that fate is hard and cruel in bringing graduation from high school at a time when industrial recession makes it hard to find employment may discover that in the long run this is one of those blessings which come in deep disguise.

When industry is booming and wages are high and jobs easy to find, there is a great temptation for the graduate to weigh an immediate pay check more heavily than preparation for later and larger opportunities which come through more education.

When there are no jobs to be had, the graduate is likely to make a more determined effort to continue his studies. It is surprising to know that college enrollment, especially in schools offering technical training, increases as industrial employment drops. Youth is learning that education pays dividends in dollars.

THE STARS SAY:

For Saturday, May 21

A very enterprising and lively day is forecast from the predominant sidereal activities. Sudden and surprising changes loom in connection with very important propositions, which will require much initiative and constructive effort. If these be brought to bear with energy, attention to details and intensive application, there will be excellent results in stabilizing the affairs. Personal associations also have aspects for solidity and satisfaction.

If This Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of much surprising activity, with new matters and much initiative developing in connection with solid projects or new undertakings having important bearing on stabilizing the future. Unexpected travel and change are in order, and worthwhile achievement depends on a constructive grasp of sound opportunities.

A child born on this day may be energetic, constructive, persistent and responsible, while at the same time being friendly, congenial and popular.

DUCE'S AIR FLEET ONE OF LARGEST, BEST IN WORLD

ROME, May 20. — Behind the bayonet-barricade of Europe's biggest army Benito Mussolini has built one of the world's largest and swiftest air fleets.

Conservative estimates place at 6,000 or more the number of airplanes which Italy can hurl into the skies the moment the tocsin of war sounds.

But more important still than numbers of planes is the fact that Duce, with whip and spur, has driven Italian industry to accomplish the impossible.

There isn't one single non-Italian motor in a fighting aircraft bearing the tricolor rudder emblem. Italian production lines, despite handicaps such as scarcity of raw materials, turn out one motor per day per factory and there are at least six factories working around the clock producing airplane engines.

Few Foreign Engines

Only remaining foreign engines in operation are mounted on about sixty Ala Littoria civilian aircraft and these will be replaced, as soon as they wear out by Italian motors.

Cost of the average Italian bomber is approximately $35,000. Aluminum is abundant and cheap in Italy. So is linen fabric. On the whole, Italian planes of all categories except the new, fast, all-metal pursuiters, are of mixed wood, alloy, fabric construction. Labor is cheap.

An American first rank bomber, which of course outclasses anything the Italians are building, costs $250,000. The Italian bomber is built for Italy's specific needs. A maximum radius of 1,000 kilometers carrying one long ton of bombs is all that is required. So they build 'em fast and cheap.

Pilot Instruction Cheaper

It costs the American government $25,000 to turn out one first-class pilot. The Italians make a good pilot for less than that many lire, or about $2,000. The American pilot who takes a Martin bomber into the air must have six months of instruction. The Italian pilot takes an S-81 bomber, worth about 750,000 lire or less into the skies after flying as little as 100 solo hours.

Consequently Italy has today approximately 8,000 class A pilots, about 2,000 second string pilots and a reserve of at least 4,000. In the United States we have 1,400 top rank Army pilots and we are considered tops in the air.

Italy's ability to produce home-made motors for aircraft tanks and transport vehicles is considered, however, far more important a factor in estimating Fascist fighting strength than the imposing total of 2,700 bombers which Duce can order into action at an instant's notice.

Speedy Mobilization Possible

He can press a little green button of a series on his desk and mobilize immediately in addition a fast flying pursuit fleet of 1,000 front-line ships and about 750 reserves.

But the really vital point, air and military experts insist, is that Italy has built up an aircraft industry capable of rapid production—for so long as raw materials can come into the country or supplies one hand can last—independently of the rest of the world. Observation is a branch of the air war technique in which Italy has little confidence. Planes of this category total well under 400, according to reliable information. Experience in Spain has shown the lower, under-armed observers are as vulnerable as clay pigeons and that except under unusual circumstances it isn't worth the trouble to send up observation planes. This important mission will be entrusted by the Italians to fleets of bombers adequately protected by pursuers.

African Air Strength
Italian air-strength in Libya and East Africa cannot be accurately gauged. Best reliable information is vague but places the total strength in Tripolitania at about 630 ships and 476 machines in Ethiopia, making a total for these colonies of 1,073 planes only about 20 per cent of which are the latest model front line calibre.

Most of the junky, slow hard-steering aircraft—Caproni's and the early S-79's and S-81's—Italy got rid of in Abyssinia, in training crackups and, truth be said, in Spain. The early bombers sent by Italy to Generalissimo Franco were not of the best but were rapidly replaced by the good faster craft as soon as it became obvious the French and the Russians were out to gain dominance of the Spanish skies.

Summing up Italy's aerial power one obtains the startling figure of 6,125 fighting ships of all classes, pages and categories. Out that figure by half if you think it is exaggerated and you still have a formidable air force.

HEALTH

BARBER'S ITCH
Recently I received a letter from a worried young man. He had contracted an infection of the skin of the face known as "barber's itch". What worried him most was the fear that he had acquired an incurable affliction.

"Impetigo contagiosa" is the big medical name for barber's itch. It is an infection of the skin in any part of the beard area. Sometimes the doctors speak of it as "sycosis". Although this is a highly contagious disease, it is definitely curable. But it must not be forgotten, the infection is easily spread from one individual to another.

The name was applied originally because it could be traced to barber shops where faulty hygienic measures were practiced. I am glad to say that as a result of legal health precautions, this condition is almost never met at present. But if there is any carelessness in the handling and care of brushes, towels, razors and other implements of the shop, the disease is bound to appear. It is more common in institutions and camps where one victim may spread the infection to others.

Blisters First
At first there are small blisters on the skin. These break and may discharge pus. As they dry a thin crust is left on the skin. The disease will be recognized by the slightly turned up edges of the crust.

If barber's itch has been contracted, it is best to avoid shaving until the inflammation and other evidences of infection subside. The hair of the face may be clipped or cut, but the razor should be avoided until all signs of acute trouble have disappeared. The hands should be carefully washed after handling the infected sores. The towels should be kept separate, and scissors and brushes must be carefully cleansed.

Neglect will result in rapid spread of the infection to other parts of the body. The soiled and contaminated hands easily spread the disease to the scalp and other hairy surfaces. It is very certain that if the disease is neglected or improperly treated it will be given to others. This is commonly done through handshaking or by contact with soiled linen.

It is best to consult at once with your doctor who will prescribe the necessary treatment.

160 At Lutheran Church Mother-Daughter Banquet

A delightful Mother-Daughter program at Holy Trinity English Lutheran church last night was attended by 160 members of the church and visitors, among them 49 guests from St. John's Lutheran church in East Liverpool.

Guests were members of the Willing Workers missionary society and the Young Ladies Needlework society of East Liverpool church.

The affair was given in honor of Miss Jessie Thomas, former missionary in India who will return there this fall to resume her work. Members of the Jessie Thomas Missionary society sponsored the program.

A welcome was extended members and guests by Mrs. Leonard Echols, program chairman. The group sang "Living for Others," which was followed by responsive reading and prayer, led by Mrs. J. A. Fehr.

Miss Ennette Rhue of East Liverpool played a xylophone solo. Mrs. Alfred Stoddard of East Liverpool read "Favorite Poems," one of them in honor of Mrs. Fehr, who was guest speaker at a recent meeting in East Liverpool.

Miss Ruth Schneidmiller of East Liverpool, accompanied by Miss Rhue, offered a vocal number, "Sympathy," and Mrs. John Schneidmiller and daughter, Annette of East Liverpool played a piano duet.

Mrs. J. Howard Groner sang "A Tribute to Mothers," accompanied at the piano by Miss Rachel Lou Keister.

Toasts Are Given

The mothers' toast to daughters was given by Mrs. E. A. Hoch, who read an original poem. Response was given by her daughter, Miss Ruth Hoch. The grandmothers' toast to mothers and daughters was offered by Mrs. Park Newhouse.

Mrs. G. D. Keister presented Miss Thomas, who spoke on "Happiness in Church, Home and Heart."

Miss Thomas spoke of her work as missionary in India, where she is known as the "Church Building Woman" through her work in raising funds to build the small, one room churches used there. Miss Thomas was the native costume. After her talk she answered questions from her audience. She explained the caste system and discussed the food of the Indian people.

Miss Thomas pointed out the great need of churches in India, saying that services in many cases had to be conducted outdoors. She exhibited a replica in miniature of the type of church common in India and urged the support of church people here to campaigns providing funds for the building of places of worship.

She concluded her talk by repeating two prayers in Indian dialect.

Mrs. J. A. Fehr spoke on "A Message to India," presenting Miss Thomas a number of gifts for the Indian people from the Jessie Thomas society members and a contribution for the church-building from the Women's Missionary society and the Jessie Thomas group.

Flowers Presented

Mrs. Echols introduced Mrs. Keith Harris, president of the Jessie Thomas society, who presented Miss Thomas a lovely corsage of yellow daisies, the missionary's favorite flower and the flower symbol of the society.

Mrs. Marie Sproat, 91, of Salem, oldest mother, and Mrs. Leonard Strobel III, of East Liverpool, youngest mother, were presented bouquets.

Remarks were heard from Mrs. John Howell, president of the Young Ladies Needlework society and Mrs. Nolan Herrin, president of the Willing Workers society of East Liverpool.

Mothers' and daughters' pledges and the concluding prayer, the missionary benediction, closed the program.

A buffet lunch was served by a committee which included Mrs. G. L. McNeel, Mrs. Donald Izenour and Mrs. Harris. The lace-covered table was appointed in gold and blue, society colors. Gold tapers and center bouquet of gold and blue spring flowers, arranged by Miss Hilda Franke completed the table decorations.

The Three Links Social club of the Odd Fellows will have its regular coverdinner Monday, May 23, in the hall instead of May 30, as originally planned.

A large attendance is desired as plans for the annual picnic next month will be made. The session will be the last until next September.

Mrs. D. M. McNally and niece, Miss Harriet Nusbaum, have returned to their home in Detroit after spending a few days with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Whiteleather and Miss Nusbaum's mother, Mrs. Pearl Nusbaum, West Fifth st.

East Pershing Street Couple To Mark 60th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Steffel of 1055 East Pershing st., whose 60th wedding anniversary will be Saturday, will celebrate the occasion Sunday, holding open house from 2 to 4 p. m. at their home.

Friends and neighbors of the couple will be welcomed at that time. Assisting in entertaining will be their daughters and daughters-in-law. Their seven children and twelve grandchildren, as well as her brother, Robert Blind of Dunganon, and sister, Mrs. Margaret Englert of Salem, will be at the home Sunday.

Miss Mary Blind and Joseph Steffel were married in Leetonia May 21, 1878, by Rev. Fr. E. H. J. Lindesmith. She was born Sept. 12, 1861 in East Brady, Pa., the daughter of Peter and Catherine Blind, who moved to Leetonia shortly before their daughter's marriage. Mr. Steffel, son of Martin and Catherine Steffel also was born in East Brady, Pa., March 19, 1856.

They lived in Leetonia for a number of years after their marriage. Four of their 10 children were born there. They resided at Franklin Square for about a year, moving to Salem, where they have lived since.

Mr. and Mrs. Steffel made their home on Park ave. for nearly 30 years before moving into the home on East Pershing st., which they have occupied for 15 years.

They recall that the waterworks station on West State st., was being constructed at the time they moved to Salem.

The couple celebrated their golden wedding anniversary 19 years ago in the home where the 60th anniversary will be observed Sunday. He is 82 years old and she is 76.

Mrs. Steffel's sister and her brother are the only people living in this vicinity who were present at the wedding ceremony.

The seven children are: John of Flint, Mich.; Mrs. Ella Brown of Akron, Mrs. Harry Chappell, George, Fred, Clarence and Mrs. Dorothy Frederick of Salem.

Mr. and Mrs. Steffel are members of St. Paul's Catholic church. Mr. Steffel was employed for 27 years at the Mullins plant, retiring 11 years ago. He was chief inspector there for many years, being the first inspector to be hired by the company. He recalls that his positions at the plant started him "at the bottom of the industry" and promoted him through several departments until he was made chief inspector.

As a leisure time occupation Mr. Steffel manufactures metal house number plates. He has installed 200 sets in Salem and many others in nearby towns.

Local members will be guests also at a dessert lunch at 1:30 p. m. Monday, May 23 in Sebring. A program of music and a book review will be enjoyed in the afternoon.

A Mother-Daughter coverdinner and party will be given by Salem chapter on Friday evening, May 27, at the temple.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Burcaw and son Richard and Mr. and Mrs. Gale Daugherty have moved from Tenth st., to the Benton rd.

Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Kerr are now occupying their new residence at 1076 Franklin st., having moved from Cleveland st.

Mr. and Mrs. Dallas J. Hanna of New Matamoras have moved to South Lincoln ave., to make their home.

Politicians' Eyes Upon Oregon Today

PORTLAND, ORE., May 20.—Oregon supplanted Pennsylvania as the nation's political sounding board today as 248,000 Democrats were called to vote in a test of strength for Interior Secretary Harold Ickes, Senator Norris (Ind-Neb) and John L. Lewis' CIO as state primary election factors.

The Democratic gubernatorial contest between Governor Charles H. Martin and his Norris-sponsored opponent, Henry L. Hess of La-Grande has eclipsed all other races, although more than half a million Republicans and Democrats will select candidates for governor, senator and three congressmen.

Censured by Ickes and Norris, Martin closed his campaign last night with a sweeping denunciation of labor racketeers.

The 74-year-old former congressman and retired major general reasserted his loyalty to the administration and attacked bitterly Ickes' letter to Hess asserting that Martin was at heart "no New Dealer."

The CIO and Lewis were involved only indirectly in the primary. They have taken no active part in the campaign.

Enters State Race

COLUMBUS, May 20.—Charles Bracher, former city commissioner of Dayton, today was a candidate for the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor, having filed petitions with the secretary of state.

WEIR SUBMITS RECOVERY PLAN

Seven-Point Program Is Outlined By Steelmaster

(By Associated Press)
CHARLESTON, W. Va., May 20. — Steelmaster Ernest T. Weir left here today a seven-point program for business betterment that if adopted, he predicted, would move the nation "definitely from this depression in four to six months."
If these things are not done, he said, "we must expect conditions to grow gradually worse. For talk of a recession is ridiculous. This is a depression—serious, deep-rooted and progressive."
The chairman of the National Steel corporation listed these seven points last night in an address to the West Virginia Chamber of Commerce.
"Restore confidence by an unqualified pledge to retain unaltered the principles and structure of the American systems of business and government."
"Declare a permanent policy with regard to basic economic control."
"Amend tax laws to eliminate punitive and crippling provisions."
"Amend the labor laws so they shall be fair and apply with equal force to the employer, all employees and all labor organizations."
"Remove threats of government competition, such as the one overhanging utilities."
"Send the Corcorans, the Cohens and their kind (brain trusters) back where they came from. Cease attacks on business. Provide a leadership under which all the people can unite."
"Make this program clean and then stick to it."
The steel magnate, a staunch Republican, said that if these things were done "men wanted" signs eventually would again hang on factory gates.

Theater Attractions

The low-down in higher learning is given by Gracie Allen, in the new musical comedy, "College Swing," which shows tonight and Saturday at the State. George Burns, Martha Raye and Bob Hope have leading roles.

It is a rollicking farce showing what happens on a college campus when the school nitwit inherits the university and puts her unusual ideas of education into effect.

A Mad Semester

The result is as mad a semester as Gracie can make it, aided by a supporting cast which includes Edward Everett Horton, Florence George, Ben Blue, Betty Grable, Jackie Coogan and John Payne.

This enthusiastic "liberal education" promptly liquidates the faculty and installs her own pals in the places of the ousted professors. Hope becomes "Professor of Applied Romance," and immediately "applies" the romance to another madcap member of the faculty, Martha Raye. Gracie makes Ben Blue head of the physical education department and assumes the coveted post of "Dean of Men" herself.

As head of the college, Gracie is ready to take in her stride not only the faculty but the board of trustees as well. When the chief of them, Edward Everett Horton, tries to spoil her game by taking the university out of her hands, she turns the tables on him and proves that she knows more about education than she does about romance. In a hilarious climax, she surrenders the college to him, while he surrenders his heart and his millions to her.

As Gracie's love interest, Horton plays his first romantic role in many pictures. William Boyd, in the famous Hopalong Cassidy role, is featured in the western, "Cassidy of Bar 20," attraction at the Grand tonight and Saturday.

Smart Alec

CAMDEN, N. J.—Three times an intruder forced his way into Isaac Paul's home while Paul and his wife were away, and helped himself to contents of the icebox.

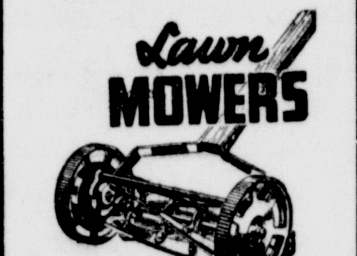

The third time Paul carefully searched the house. On a couch in the living room he saw a figure apparently asleep. Stealthily he approached, then leaped upon the inert "sleeper."

It was a dummy—made of pillows and old clothes.

In an interesting contest Miss Theda Barnett was first prize winner, while Miss Geneva Whinery won the consolation prize. Mrs. Anderson served refreshments. Mrs. Ida Wyss, assisted by her daughters, Miss Mildred Wyss and Mrs. Lloyd Stackhouse, entertained a party of young folks Saturday evening honoring the fifth wedding anniversary of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Atlee Freshley of Homeworth. Mr. and Mrs. Dave Bauman and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Steffer and family were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Chris Berger near Negley. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wang of Alliance accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Sam Wang left Sunday morning for a two weeks auto trip to St. Petersburg and Orlando, Fla., visiting other points of interest en route.

Missionary Meeting
The Women's Missionary society of the Lutheran church met at the home of Mrs. Homer Greenstein on Monday evening, with Mrs. W. J. Berger as devotional leader and Mrs.

J. E. Finney as leader of the lesson study on the subject "If I were a Moslem Woman Today." The June meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Earl Wang, with Mrs. Wang as leader of the lesson study and Mrs. Peter Berger as devotional leader.

A union service of the Church of the Brethren and the Lutheran congregation will be held at the Lutheran church on Sunday, May 23, marking Memorial day. The sermon will be delivered by the pastor, Rev. O. C. Krammer. Rev. A. Byers, pastor of the Brethren church will assist. Music will be furnished by a combined chorus from the two churches. On Monday afternoon, Memorial day, May 30, the usual procedure will be followed, with the procession marching to the cemetery where brief services will be held, after which the crowd will assemble at the Lutheran church where Rev. Ian Robertson, rector of the Episcopal church of Salem, will deliver the address. Rev. and Mrs. John W. Berger of Lima are spending a short time with relatives here.

A meeting was held at the Church of the Brethren on Tuesday evening when plans were made for a gospel chorus of the combined churches of the Brethren and Lutheran churches and any others who may care to join them. Mrs. Charles Antram was elected pianist, Mrs. Paul Steffer assistant pianist and Leander Stoffer as director. A rehearsal will be held at the Lutheran church on Tuesday evening, May 24, and the group will sing for the Memorial Sunday service on May 29.

Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Hoskins visited the latter's parents at Mountsville, W. Va., over the weekend.

BROWN STARTS WATER SURVEY

Safety of Life and Property at Sea Is Objective of Plan

Survey arose out of the desire of congress to promote greater safety of life and property at sea and on the inland waterways of the country. The fact which led to the authorization of the present survey was the feeling of the Congress that it lacked information on which to base intelligent legislation which would set up radio requirements necessary to the greater protection of life and property on the Great Lakes.

Therefore, it authorized the survey and the communications commission appointed Colonel Brown to conduct it. He will assemble all necessary factual information for the benefit of the commission, which must report back to congress not later than December 31, 1939.

Dr. Marvin L. Fair, formerly professor of transportation at Temple university, Philadelphia, has been designated research director of the survey. As a research consultant, Commissioner Brown has appointed Dr. G. Lloyd Wilson, head of the transportation department of the University of Pennsylvania.

Goodrich Plants Closed by Walkout

AKRON, May 20.—All Akron plants of the B. F. Goodrich Co. were closed today in a walkout, which L. L. Callahan, president of Goodrich local, United Rubber Workers of America, said started as a protest against retention of eight apprentice electricians while men with longer service were being laid off.

"Now that we are out, we are going to demand a signed agreement, vacations with pay and the stepping of production work by supervisors and foremen," Callahan said.

No company statement was immediately available.

Pickets marched this morning in front of entrances of five Goodrich plants, turning back office workers as well as factory employees. A sixth mill had not been in operation recently.

Callahan said maintenance workers "and any others needed for plant safety" were being passed through the picket lines.

The following court members were present: C. E. Pelton, county executive; Rev. J. C. Wilson, H. H. Detwiler, Lester Harrold and L. E. Holloway, Columbiana; Guy Mauro and Harry Ginther, Leetonia.

The Ladies' auxiliary of Benjamin Firestone post, American Legion, held the annual mother-daughter party Wednesday evening in the Legion hall with 70 present, including members of Hattie Bishop circle, Ladies of the G. A. R.

The unit president, Mrs. H. W. Lundgren, presided and welcomed mothers and guests and the response was given by Mrs. John Fesler, president of the G. A. R. circle.

Mrs. William Simpson, department president, and Mrs. Melville Gieckner, district president, both of Barberton, gave interesting talks. Miss Mae Ashman presented the matter of the unit sponsoring a girl scout group and the members voted to concur and Miss Ashman will be the captain.

The auxiliary will hold its annual "Poppy day" sale Saturday, May 28, and will also cooperate with the Legion in the Memorial services May 29-30. Program numbers included a dialogue by Helen Berryman and Gloria Martin, and vocal solos by Mrs. Raymond Culp and daughter, Charlotte. A cover-dish dinner preceded the meeting. There will be no Luther League meeting Sunday evening. The League missionary offering will instead be received at Sunday school.

Police Will Scan Mrs. Cable's Letter

CANTON, May 20.—Police Chief Ira A. Manderbaugh was to go to Dover today to take possession of a letter written by Mrs. Rose Belter Cable, 46, just a few hours before she was slain on March 11, 1937.

The letter was addressed to a sister, Mrs. Nettie Thompson of Dover, and related a dispute which Mrs. Cable had had with a relative over financial matters. In it, Mrs. Thompson informed police, her sister told of trouble she was having.

Although this angle of the case had been thoroughly checked more than a year ago, Chief Manderbaugh said today, he proposed to renew his investigation along this line because police had had no previous knowledge of the letter. He was inclined to place little value in the new development since the letter refers to a family disagreement that had been thoroughly checked.

MEXICO Mo.—A rail fence, built in 1830 by William and Jerry West on a farm near here, is still in use. It is believed to be the oldest fence of its kind west of the Mississippi.

Here and There About Town

Speaks in Lisbon

Rev. S. Talmage Magann, First Baptist church pastor, presented his talk, "Remnants of Magic in America," when he addressed members of the Kiwanis club in Lisbon at noon Thursday.

The story unfolded by the minister is the result of original research work on a series of formulas which which doctors used years ago. The material for the address, rather than being found in books, was handed down by word of mouth and reached this country through the Negro slaves.

Three Games For Althouse

The Motors will play Saturday and Sunday at Centennial park, meeting the East Liverpool Riverfront Florists at 3:30 p. m. tomorrow and Wednesday at 3 p. m. Sunday. On Monday the Salem team will play at East Palestine.

Tells About Dogs

Kiwanis club members enjoyed a highly interesting talk by Eldon Groves, editor of Farm and Dairy, farm publication, at their noon luncheon and meeting yesterday at the Memorial building.

Groves provided an interesting picture of canine life, recalling incidents he recalled from the years during which he had bred and trained dogs.

Rev. H. J. Thompson was chairman.

Arrested by G-Men

John Stover

After two years of investigation, G-men arrested five men and one woman at Hot Springs, Ark., charging them with having harbored the notorious Barker-Karpis gang. Those taken into custody included the former chief of police, former chief of detectives and John Stover, above, operator of the Hot Springs municipal airport.

JURY RELEASED IN HOWELL CASE

Six Men, Six Women Unable to Reach Agreement On Verdict

The victim identified Howell as the man who assaulted him. Placed on the stand Tuesday morning, Heddlston also identified a sweater offered in evidence as a state's exhibit. His assailant, he declared, wore the garment during the robbery.

Several East Liverpool police officers also testified for the prosecution. The defense placed six alibi witnesses on the stand who testified Howell was in a Newell, W. Va. pool room on the night in question. George Curran, county detective, called as a rebuttal witness, stated he had driven from the scene of the robbery to the pool room and back in 14 minutes.

Howell is also under indictment for assault with intent to kill in connection with the same case. No date has been fixed for his second trial.

Trunk, But No Owner

COLUMBUS, May 20.—A trunk, sent from Boston and addressed in the handwriting of Miss Corella Bond, 69, passenger reported missing from the S. S. Evangeline when it docked at Boston yesterday, was received here by her cousin, Mrs. Otto Lintner. Miss Bond was born in Sabina, Clinton county.

Would Change Name

TROY, May 20.—Twelve property owners of nearby Tiptonville city have filed a petition in common pleas court to change the name of the town to "Tipp City" to avoid confusion with Tiptonville, O., in Harrison county.

N.E.O. TRACK SQUADS READY FOR ANNUAL MEET

Leading Cinderpath Stars Of Northeastern Ohio Run In Events Here Tomorrow

Akron Garfield, Defending Champion, and Warren Rated Favorites In District Track-Field Meet; Preliminaries In Morning

Placing Salem in the scholastic sports limelight for a second time this year, more than 300 athletes from 23 Class A schools will compete at Reilly stadium tomorrow in the annual track and field meet of the southern half of the northeastern Ohio district.

Numerous outstanding schoolboy stars who showed their wares in the big Night Relay carnival here two weeks ago will be back again on the local cinderpath, bidding this time for qualifying berths in the state meet at Columbus next week.

Only the athletes and relay teams which place first, second and third in their respective events in the district meet are permitted to compete in the state championship events at Ohio State university.

The local meet is limited to Class A schools this year for the first time. Class B teams will compete at Poland.

Preliminaries will get under way at 9 o'clock and continue until about 11:30. Finals in all but the weight events will be run off in the afternoon, starting at 1:30. The weight event finals will be held in the morning along with the preliminaries.

Heading the list of schools entered in the meet is Akron Garfield, the defending champion, which won its title last year by one point after a close duel with Salem. The Akron team is favored to repeat, although stiff opposition is expected from the well-balanced Warren Harding High squad.

In addition to Garfield and Warren, other schools which will be represented in the track and field events are:

Alliance, Akron Buchtel, Akron East, Akron Kenmore, Akron North, Akron South, Akron West, Barberton, Boardman, Canton Lehman, Canton McKinley, East Palestine, Highland, Kent, Lisbon, Louisville, Niles, Ravenna, Salem, Struthers and Youngstown Rayen.

Two Warren athletes—Keith O'Rourke and Jack Shovarek—took the list of individual favorites. O'Rourke, who has leaped six feet, five and one-half inches in the high jump this year, is one of the most outstanding athletes in the meet. Shovarek rates attention because of his ability to toss the discus.

Other favorites in the meet are Trepanier of Akron Garfield and Glavitsch of Barberton in the 100 and 220-yard dashes; Ben Maloy of East Palestine in the 440-yard dash; Klinger of Canton McKinley in the half-mile run.

Byrnes of Warren and Stevens of Akron Garfield in the mile run; Cooper of Boardman, Pringle of Akron Garfield and Wilson of Youngstown Rayen in the high hurdles; Lowry of Salem, Hill of East Palestine and Greevy of Akron East in the pole vault.

Whitney of Akron Garfield, Williams of Akron South and Lutsch of Salem in the discus; Streza of Alliance, Moldea of Akron Garfield and Maloney of Barberton in the shot put; Lutsch of Salem and Dunson of Akron Garfield in the high jump and Lindsay of Akron West in the broad jump.

Wilbur J. Springer, former Salem High school principal and athletic coach, will serve as referee of the meet. George Thompson of Akron will be the starter with Jim Carpenter of Salem as assistant. Dave Williams of Youngstown, who has been an official at local track meets for 19 years, will be clerk of course. His assistant will be John Carpenter.

The following other officials have been named by Frederick E. Cope, director of the meet:

Head finish judge, H. C. Wagner of Warren; head judge of jumps, William Robusch of Salem; head judge of weights, C. Bruce Hamm of Struthers; head track inspector, Larry Brown of Ravenna; head timer, J. M. Kelley of Salem; head scorer and statistician, James Wingard of Salem; announcer, Ray Reasbeck of Salem; custodian of awards, Lewis Smith of Salem.

The time schedule for the meet follows:

LEE PERKS UP TO HELP CUBS FLAG CHANCES

Goes 10 Innings On Hill In Beating Giants Thursday

By SID FEDER Associated Press Sports Writer

Eight-inning Lee is ten-inning Bill now, and things are perking up for Cholly Grimm's galloping Cubs from Chicago.

It had been so long since Bill went the route that the folks were beginning to think he didn't know there were nine innings in a ball game. Someone must have tipped him off yesterday, because he not only lasted the regulation distance, but added one inning for good measure and handed the Giants at 1-0 setback.

In six previous starts this year, the same situation prevailed. But, after a streak of 11 times in which he failed to finish what he started, Bill's right arm looked as classy as ever. He pitched a five-hit job in his "comeback," didn't walk a man, and grew stronger and faster inning by inning.

Harry Gumbert's tenth-inning wildness and Billy Herman's timely single produced the one and only tally for the Cub victory, which marked the first shutout for the Giants this year, the first time they have dropped two in a row, and the first series Bill Terry's Terriers have lost on their home lot. It also sliced the Giants' National league lead over the Cubs to 4½ games.

Meanwhile, other things were happening on the baseball front. At Boston the Pirates dropped a 4-3 decision in 11 frames versus a day, which boosted Casey Stengel's boys, riding a five-game winning streak, into third place in the National league and left the Bucs with the total of only seven scored runs in three-day stay at the Hub.

Back home after a costly road trip, the Indians are about-facing as usual. No matter how they totter around the circuit, they're always rough touch and nasty in Cleveland and they were never tougher than yesterday when they bashed the Washington Senators, 15-3, with a three-home-run attack, to return to first place. The Red Sox, after having won eight straight and taken over the pace, were blanked 4-0 by Johnny Whitehead and the White Sox in an abbreviated seven-inning affair, and dropped back to second.

Hugh (Losing Pitcher) Mulcahy fooled the boys and girls in Philadelphia by pitching the Phillies to a 5-4 win over Cincinnati, dropping the Reds to fifth. Brooklyn's Dodgers exploded a seven-run assault in the seventh and eighth innings to trounce St. Louis Cardinals, 8-4.

Rudy York and Hank Greenberg each contributed a homer and the Detroit Tigers topped the Athletics, 6-2. The Yankees and Browns were rained out.

Salem News Cops Bowling League Title Second Time

Completing organized bowling activity for the 1937-38 season, the Commercial Handicap league brought its eight-month campaign to a close at the Grate Recreation alleys last night.

The Salem News won the championship of the Commercial circuit for the second straight season, chalked up 69 wins as against 30 losses. The Sinclairs finished in second place with 61 victories and 38 defeats, while Smith's Creamery captured third place with 59 wins and 40 losses.

Close behind the Creamery team in fourth place came the Grate Recreation five with 48 victories and 41 defeats. Other teams in the 12-team league finished in the following order: People's Lumber, fifth; Berg Bretzels, sixth; Crescent Machine, seventh; Bishop's Engineers, eighth; Ohio Bell Telephone, ninth; Leetonia All-Stars, tenth; Merit Shoes, eleventh; and Salem Polo Club, twelfth.

The Merit Shoe team may yet improve its position since it has three games of a protested match with the Salem News to roll-off. One win in the protested match would give Merit a tie for ninth, while two wins would give it sole possession of ninth place.

The champion News team is composed of James Jackson, Dallas DeRhodes, Ralph Gregg, Ralph Hawley, Delbert Miller, Ray Alexander and Jack Ballantine.

In addition to the final Commercial league activity, two special matches were rolled at the Grate alleys last night. Louder's V-8's of Hanoverton defeated the Citizen's Ice & Coal, 255 to 217, in the one match, while Berg Bretzels of Leetonia took the measure of the Crescent Machine of Leetonia, 236 to 229, in the other.

Prior to their special match, the Louder team entertained the Citizen's Ice & Coal keggers at dinner. Both of these teams were members of the Pastime league during the past season.

DAYTON SEEKS LINKS HONORS

Flyers Bid for 2nd Inter-collegiate Title In Weekend Play

CINCINNATI, May 20.—The University of Dayton's golf team drove down the Terrace Park fairways today in hopes of salvaging individual honors after surrendering the team championship in the Ohio intercollegiate golf tournament to the University of Cincinnati.

The individual race is on today and tomorrow, with 16 men paired for the first round. They are Genung of Dayton vs Peck of Miami, Vordenburg of Cincinnati vs Bockman of Dayton, Wood of Cincinnati vs Chamberlain of Cincinnati, Zolkiewicz of Dayton vs Hamilton of Ohio Wesleyan, Bussey of Ohio Wesleyan vs Lahrner of Akron, Deuser of Miami vs Humm of Dayton, and Randolph of Denison vs Snyder of Ohio university.

Paul Genung of Dayton shot 154 for the 36 holes yesterday to become medalist. He was one up on Joe Zolkiewicz, individual titleholder, who scored 155. The Cincinnati Bearcats, 1935 team and individual champs, scored 634 for the 36 holes, just six strokes ahead of Dayton, last year's champs. Miami was third with 661 and Akron fourth with 661. Ohio Wesleyan and Denison sent only individual starters and Xavier of Cincinnati did not compete.

An attack of acute indigestion sent Sonny Startzman, Cincinnati's main hope in the individual competition, to a hospital just before play started.

Girl Seeks College Golf Championship

GRANVILLE, May 20.—The first girl ever to seek a college golf championship in competition with men tees off today at the Granville Inn course in the third annual Ohio conference links meet.

She is Miss Janet Shock of Dayton, blonde co-ed at Denison university and No. 4 player on the "Big Red" quartet. A former medalist and finalist in the state women's match play championship, Miss Shock is expected to be among the leaders in the 36-hole, two-day medal play test which ends Saturday. In 16 dual matches this year she was victorious nine times.

DRIVER TO AIM FOR 120 M.P.H. ON SPEEDWAY

Petillo, 1935 Winner, Sees Record At Least Five Miles Faster

INDIANAPOLIS, May 20.—Stocky little Kelly Petillo, winner of the Indianapolis 500-mile speedway race in 1935, expects great things from his big red four-cylinder machine this year.

The former Los Angeles fruit truck driver has not spun a web of dreams for his apparent optimism. He has taken the car that roared under the checked flag three years ago, put a new motor in it and added several inside mechanical gadgets which he jealously guards from rival mechanics.

One of them, he explained, is a fuel pump which automatically forces more gasoline into the carburetor. Other changes have some type of pump, but Petillo declares experiments have convinced him that for speed his type is best. Another improved gadget is the fuel mixture.

The little racing driver gave a hint of the strategy he intends to follow in the Memorial Day Classic. He said:

"My race won't be as leader. I'll hang back in the field and let the heavy-footed boys burn out." Petillo expects a new record for the 500-mile grind.

"We should add at least five miles an hour to the average speed this year with a choice of mixtures," Petillo said.

In tests during the winter on the dry bed of Muroc lake, 100 miles outside Los Angeles, Petillo and his mechanic, Carl Rupprecht, zoomed his heavy lead-bullet over the flats at 155 miles an hour. They used a special mixture fuel. "It made the motor turn over like an earthquake," faster than I've ever run before."

Last year, with a 318 cubic inch piston displacement, the connecting rods in his motor overheated and went out a trifle past the half-way mark.

Now he's cut it down to 270, four under the maximum allowed, and has escaped the heat which he formerly had to combat.

What about streamlining? "Might add a mile or two, but not enough to bother with." In three trial starts during the last few days the squat, shovel-nosed racer has thundered laps at 120, 123 and 125 miles an hour. Only one other, Rex Mays, posted a better speed during trial runs. Kelly asserts that the ones to watch this year are Mays, Jimmy Snyder, Louis Meyer and Ronny Householder. But he doesn't under-rate Wilbur Shaw, who roared to a new record last year, averaging 113.85 miles an hour for 500 miles. He said Shaw had too much prize money left to "drive her to the limit."

The confident little speed-maker needs the money this year—he spent $1,600 during the winter perfecting his racing car—needs money for his pretty-dark-haired wife, "some crackers and a little wine."

Placencia to Face Canton Benik Cafes

A tight pitching duel between Willis Schaefer and Frank (Lefty) Chismar is expected when Lake Placencia's independent baseball team meets the Canton Benik Cafes at the lake diamond at 2:30 p. m. Sunday.

Chismar is the Canton team's ace twirler and boasts several years experience in minor leagues. Schaefer is rated as one of the best pitchers in this vicinity.

Ted Schwartzhoff will be missing from the Placencia line-up for the first time this year. Schwartzhoff is now in Findlay where he is trying out with the Findlay team of the Ohio State league.

A COUNTRY HOME RIGHT IN TOWN!

This 8-acre tract is located inside the city limits, and has a large amount of very desirable frontage on a good concrete road. Land is almost level, and would require very little grading or filling. Has many fine shade trees and a wealth of fruit of all varieties for home use.

Includes 14-room frame house, old but comfortable, which has gas and electricity. This property offers several desirable settings for new homes, and enough lots could be sold off to make it almost pay for itself. Some lots already have been surveyed.

The owner is now located in another city, and for that reason we are authorized to offer this property at the low price of $3,700!

CHAPTER XXII
For eight weeks he stayed away from Roxanne, but in the end he went back to her. Not because he wanted to, but because there came a night when it was easier to go back than to stay away.

In April, Alec finished The Apple Orchard. Sam Bernstein read it over a weekend and called Alec up on Monday and asked him to come down to the office. His inevitable cigar in the left-hand corner of his mouth, he smiled at him across the top of a cluttered flat-topped desk. For twenty years now, this quiet, shrewd-eyed producer had sat in this small office, high above Broadway, and helped make the official history. He had never looked, or spoken, more seriously than he was looking and speaking this morning.

"You have written a beautiful play, Alec. But I should advise you to give up all idea of producing it commercially."

Alec laughed bewilderedly. "You must be crazy, Sam. You've just said, yourself—"

"I know what I just said. It's a beautiful play. . . but that doesn't prove it will be a successful play. When you've been in this business as long as I have, you'll know that a play can be beautiful and delicately written and still fail miserably. You do know that, Alec. If you know anything at all about show business—"

"That's a chance that I'm perfectly willing to take," said Alec, getting up to pace nervously up and down the room. "I've never written anything in my life that I've felt so intensely about as I do this. It is something, I suppose, that I have wanted to write for years. A really serious and delicate piece of work—not just another mediocre Broadway formula, tricked out in a lot of sophisticated phrases to amuse the carriage trade."

Bernstein regarded him quietly. "You're determined to produce it then?"

"Absolutely."

"In that case, there's just one thing to do—"

"What's that?"

"Get Margaret Ansley back from Hollywood to play Jennie. It'll cost us money, but it's our one chance of having a success."

Alec swung around and lit a cigarette. "We won't need Ansley, Sam. . . I've got other plans for Jennie. I want Caroline Hoyt to play that part."

For a moment there was a pregnant silence in the small, smoke-filled office. Then Sam said explosively, "My God, man, are you crazy? Hoyt could no more play that part than I could. It's preposterous! The one chance your play has got is to have a brilliant, experienced actress like Ansley play the lead, and you talk about giving it to a child like Hoyt. . . don't make me laugh."

"I'm not trying to amuse you," said Alec curtly. "I'm merely telling you that Hoyt is going to play that part."

"So that's it? So it's like that?" Sam shifted his chair to the other side of his mouth his lips twitched slightly. His voice was bleak. "So I might have known. I suppose I might have seen. But you've kept your nose pretty clean when it comes to show business. . . I've never had to stand for any nonsense in that direction."

"What do you mean by that crack?" demanded Alec, blood rising rapidly to his cheekbones.

"You know damn well what I mean. See here, if you're nuts about this girl and want to do something for her, why don't you buy her a play and make her a present of it? But for God's sake, don't ruin the best play you have ever written by throwing it away on an immature actress who couldn't possibly put it over—"

"I don't agree with you that she is an immature actress or that she couldn't put it over. . . I think she can."

"See here, Alec," said Sam slowly, deliberately, all anger gone now from his eyes and voice. "We've been together a good many years now. We've made each other a lot of money. I've never given you anything but pretty good advice. And now I'm telling you that in the hands of a clever, finished actress—" your play has a chance. That is, it would probably run six weeks or so and give you a certain amount of creative satisfaction which you seem to want. But with a comparatively unknown youngster like Hoyt, it's as good as dead right now before it ever goes into rehearsal. I won't touch it, myself, and what is more Alec, there isn't another producer in New York who will, with her as the first woman lead."

"He's right, you know," said Alec, the next day, repeating this conversation to Gina. "And so," he finished evenly, "I'm going to produce it myself."

It was five o'clock in the afternoon. They were in her studio and she had been working rapidly, making the most of the quickly fading north light. Now she laid down her pen, wiped her hands on a piece of rag, and walked over to where he was sitting on the small wooden platform used by her occasional models.

She sat down beside him and said, "Cigarette, please."

He lighted one for her and as she inhaled, she regarded him thoughtfully. In the several months that had passed since her return from Pittsburgh, she had achieved a sort of impersonal detachment where Alec was concerned. She knew it was only skin deep. That the slightest scratch could mar the smooth perfection of its surface. Like her conversation with Barry Bedard on the opening night of Heaven Bound, for instance. But by and large it did very well. It enabled her to go on seeing him frequently, with a minimum amount of pain. It enabled her to see him alone like this occasionally, without too much emotional strain. It even, and perhaps more importantly, enabled her to see him continually with Caroline and still experience nothing more demoralizing than a numb acceptance of things as they were.

In the end, she supposed, for a great many people, life resolved itself into just that. A quiet relinquishment of things as they had been. A quiet acceptance of things as they now were. And if you could achieve detachment, if you could personalize your deepest and most fundamental emotions, then it might be managed with a fair amount of success.

Like today, for instance. Today, she could sit here in this studio with Alec, who had not come here much lately, although once they had spent hours together in this room, and talk with him calmly and intelligently about his work. She could sit in a faded, paint-smeard linen smock, her hair pushed carelessly out of her eyes, her face badly in need of fresh make-up, and talk with him like any young woman talking to an old and very good friend.

No one observing them would ever guess that once they had shared a young and very gay and tender romance. They would think merely that here were two people who over a period of years had somehow managed to grow fond and tolerant and understanding of each other. And in a way, they would be right. Sam Bernstein had called her that morning and begged her to do what she could to persuade Alec to give up this idea of producing The Apple Orchard. He had said, "You are the only person in the world he will listen to in his present state of mind. For God's sake, Gina, see if you can't reason with him a bit."

She was fairly sure that she couldn't. But because Sam had asked her to, and she had more or less promised she would, she said now, "But you always said, Alec, that you would never make the mistake of producing your own plays. That you were a playwright and not a businessman, and that producing a play was primarily a business."

"I know I've always said that," Alec got to his feet abruptly and moved restlessly about the room. Gina guessed that his quarrel with Sam had unnerved him more than he would admit, and that if it were not for Caroline and his desire to see her behind the footlights in a vehicle of his, he would probably drop the whole thing. As it was, she knew he wouldn't and that it was useless for her to go on with it.

"And I still believe it, Gina," He sat down beside her again and grunted at her. "But I have reached the place where I can afford to do unwise and even foolish things."

"Yes, I suppose you have," "Like marrying a child half my age?" He stared at her hard for a moment, as if he were trying to see beyond the calm composure of her face. "You do think that is both foolish and unnecessary, I suppose?"

"Not necessarily. You are very much in love with her and she is devoted to you."

"But not in love with me?" "I didn't mean that—"

"Well, she isn't. I know that, of course. But she's very young and this has been a strenuous winter for her."

"You think," said Gina slowly, "that when she has time . . . when she can stop and put her mind on it, she will be in love with you?"

Alec smiled disarmingly. "Yes, I suppose that is just what I think . . . it is certainly what I hope. Her present show will probably close about the second week in May. I want her to rest for a month and then I'd like her to have two months in stock. Baltimore, I think. Sam can arrange that. Then I'll bring her back to town in September and start rehearsals of The Apple Orchard immediately."

Dr. Guard urged horse owners to consult their local veterinarian before destroying animals with broken legs although he did not advocate attempting to set severe fractures.

Preservation Of Injured Horses is Urged by Doctor

O. S. U. Veterinarian Has Been Setting Fractures Successfully for 25 Years

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, May 20—Considered from the standpoint of future usefulness, horses which suffer broken legs don't need to be shot any more than humans who might be similarly unfortunate.

That, in so many words, was the opinion expressed today by Dr. Willard F. Guard, head of the veterinary clinic at Ohio State university, who asserted he had been setting the broken legs of horses successfully for some 25 years.

Can Be Healed

"Contrary to public belief generally," Dr. Guard said, "horses' broken legs can be and are healed just as effectively as those of humans."

Aside from unusual problems encountered in treating horses for fractures, Dr. Guard said the only major difference between consideration of such injuries in horses or in humans was one of economics.

The veterinarian asserted that since most race horses and other blooded animals were insured, owners were more inclined to permit destruction of the injured animal than to run the chance that their horse would emerge crippled from a cast.

"If a man breaks his leg he asks a doctor to set it and if he doesn't regain full use of the limb, he generally is thankful it was no worse," Dr. Guard commented.

"With a horse, it's different. If the animal fails to recover completely from a leg fracture the owner generally considers he has lost the usefulness of the animal, except for breeding purposes."

Cites Successful Case

As an example of his success in setting fractured horse legs, Dr. Guard cited a horse named "De Wolf" now owned by Michigan State college.

When a colt, the animal suffered a broken radius bone, Dr. Guard said. The break was treated successfully and in 1932 the Belgian stallion placed seventh in a group of 21 two-year olds in competition at the Ohio State fair.

As an example of treating similar injuries in older animals, Dr. Guard said he set a fracture received by a 20-year-old army horse and that the horse lived several years after that without showing any apparent undesirable effects.

Dr. Guard said that he received this month a letter from Allen Smith, a farmer living near Marengo in Morrow county, commending the clinic for saving the usefulness of his horse which suffered a broken right hind leg between the stifle and the hock late last October.

Good As Ever

Set three days after it was broken, the leg healed, leaving only a slight lump. The farmer's letter said there was no lameness and that the animal was as active as any horse.

Dr. Guard said the animal was anaesthetized, the fracture set and the leg placed in a plaster cast.

To permit the horse to stand and move about in its stall, a "crutch" of metal tubing running beneath the hoof was devised. The cast was removed after one month.

He said difficulty in treating fractured legs in horses was encountered because the animal could not be put to bed like a human while recuperating. Use of the "crutch," solved the problem," he said.
